Brief overview

Cranes are considered of utmost importance as they are the definition for hope and longevity, as mentioned in the Chinese mythology. They are migratory and fragile in nature. They are omnivorous birds and feed on both grains(corn), fish and other essential minerals. Cranes are amongst the oldest existing bird species past millions of years.

In comparison to other animals, Doodle and I share a number of commonalities. Cranes are majestic and are graceful in posture and conduct. Soaring high into the sky to attain clarity and embrace freedom.
