However, some say that great companies often come out during market downturns. Many innovative entrepreneurs have stepped up to help with some old or new techniques and products. With the sudden change in the market due to COVID-19 the businesses needed to change their perspective on entrepreneurship. Many startups measure their growth in terms of numbers, but we are in a time where the focus is on sustainability and fundamental economics. Many startups might not stand the test of this critical time, but pandemic has given rise to more entrepreneurial activity." A pie chart titled "How has COVID-19 impacted your business overall?" shows the following data: Completely stopped 21.96%, Some downturns 21.18%, No impact at all 8.51%, and Other COVID government 14.34%.
