REPORT

BBA-Social outreach Program on the project Indies 15th Feb 2019

The BBA- ST Miras Animal Rescue Group has taken a step further by collaborating with the Sare Jahan Se Acha eco pol foundation. Indies-Connect and Care is a flagship project of the foundation, to help volunteers to channelize their benevolence towards street animals more efficiently and effectively.

Change has to start from home so we started by collaring our very own St Mira's Indie MOTI

An enlightening and engaging session on the foundation, it's objectives and how as animal lovers, the volunteers of the Animal Rescue group can contribute to this massive revolutionary movement in the history of animal activism, was conducted by Mr. Raja Narasimhan, Mrs. Manjiree Patwardhan and Mrs. Shivani Mohite.

The session covered essentials of general animal welfare, dos and don'ts of caring for and feeding street animals, along with the knowledge of constitutional rights on providing for the strays. They promoted a solution of the 5 C Principles- Collar, Census, Control, Co-exist and Collaborate for the issues faced today. The talk also influenced the students to implement and teach in their surroundings, about the right techniques to deal with common issues faced in societies pertaining to street dogs and cats.

Details of the Indies movement were elaborated on, where volunteers residing in different areas of the city will be given training on first aid, feeding, calculating census and equipped with the right tools that make these processes easier. Also, information about the 'Indies App' for all volunteers easier access and connectivity was provided. The aim of this collaboration is to encourage, support and influence the students to be more aware and proactive towards life in our environment. There were 70 participants.
