Activity Report

Screening of the Play "Who Killed Julius U. Celestino?"

Number of participants: 49 - 3 faculty = 46 students

The theatre club The Mira Manch Queens had its first public screening of the play "Who Killed Julius U. Celestino?" at 9:00pm on Saturday the 25th of September via a Zoom. The play premiered at the Student Induction Programme to an audience of 100 students. The entire production was an original creation scripted, directed, filmed in college and performed by the students. A total of 12 students acted in the play and were involved in costumes, technical and backstage production.

The evening began with the club coordinators Shreya, Harleen and Kareen introducing the club and explaining how they handled the various processes and sub committees of the club. The screening was about 20 minutes long and was followed by a discussion with the participants about the movie, their comments, the praises in the chat box and such. The discussion moved on to some behind-the-scenes information like the shooting process, the lights, etc. Shreya disclosed some information such as the acting process, literary allusions, the hints sent on whatsapp and the rings worn by the actors. The evening was a great success and ended with promises to release further behind the scenes footage. All in all it was a very enjoyable show full of suspense, mirch and lots of masala! So click on the link to watch it and do leave your comments.
